

● Standards for announcing flood information

Types	Standards
Flood occurrence information	Announced when flooding has occurred.
Flood danger information	Announced when the water level at the observation station has reached the level where there is danger of flooding.
Flood warning information	This is announced when the water level at the observation station is expected to reach the level where there is danger of flooding a certain time later, or if the water level has reached evacuation level and may continue to rise.
Flood advisory information	Announced when the water level at the observation station has reached the level for flood advisory, and is expected to continue to rise.